

God may have not blessed us with the opportunity to have our own biological children. However, God has given us the privilege and honor to be parents to your child.

Hi, we are Carlos and Kristin. Ever since we said "I Do," we have known both of us wanted to be parents. We stayed up nights talking about how many kids we wanted and how we would love, cherish and teach them. Even which Disney park would be their first on the list. As we reached our 30's, we determined that it was truly time to have children. After many trips to the fertility Doctor, it was determined we could not conceive by natural means. Extremely invasive procedures would be needed and even those chances were slim. We can't imagine what you, as a mother, are going through when making the most selfless act a mother can make. It is our hope as you read this profile and learn about us that your baby will be loved, cared for and cherished.

About Kristin

I was born in Florida. I have lived in Central Florida for most of my life. I have always loved the outdoors and always find an excuse to enjoy the good Florida weather. I love animals. We have one horse named Cross who is a warmblood and two donkeys named Sachmo and Donkey. We also have three dogs and a saltwater fish tank. Aside from our fish, all our animals are rescues. I love the beach and our local lakes. We have our own boat and take it out most weekends. Let's be honest, I love anything that has to do with water. Currently I am a Director in the retail business and have been with the same company since I was fifteen. I hold a Bachelors in Business Administration from Florida State University. One of my passions is ministering to the homeless. I have been blessed to have a home and a family that cares for me and I strongly believe that we should care for those who are less fortunate. If you were to ask me what I value most, I would say Family. Building traditions and strong values creates a solid foundation when growing your family. Having children has been something I have wanted since I married Carlos. Even more so when I held my niece and nephew when they were born. If chosen to receive such a selfless gift, know that your baby will be loved and cared for as if he or she was our own flesh and blood.

About Carlos

I was born in Puerto Rico. I moved to the United States when I was 7 years old. Due to my father's career, we moved around a lot. We finally settled in central Florida where I met Kristin. We met at our local church when she was a teenager. We have been married over 18 years. She is the love of my life and my rock. They say marriage is 50/50. Let me tell you, she puts in way more. That is what I admire about her the most. She is smart, beautiful and strong. I have served in the military and law enforcement for the last sixteen years. Now I am a manager for a Healthcare organization in Central Florida. I hold my Bachelors in Criminal Justice/Homeland Security. Since I was a kid, I have always wanted to be a police officer. My time as a cop was fulfilling and helped many. I love the selfless service aspect of public safety. Now that I work in healthcare, I feel that even more. Helping others in their worst time to help lower their anxiety when they come for treatment. My passion is leadership development for my team and the youth who volunteer at our hospitals. Here is a crazy story. I can't remember if it was our first or second date, I told Kristin I was going to marry her and she was going to have my kids. She was a bit shocked of course. I have always wanted to be a father. Even more so after marrying my beautiful wife. To have a baby to love and care for, is all we have wanted. Unfortunately, having our own is not possible. But, that doesn't discourage me from knowing I will be a father someday.
